

3- POSITION AIR RIFLE RULES

10 March 01

These Rules apply in Canada, and were written with reference to the rules published in the United States. They are "piggy backed" on the US rules. Therefore, a shooter must have a US Rule Book before trying to interpret these Canadian Rules.

The US Rule Book is called "2001 National Standard Three-Position Air Rifle Rules", and may be purchased from the Shooting Federation of Canada.

There are 71 pages, but pages 1 - 32 are all that need to be printed.

Any shooter participating in matches in the US however, must be prepared to follow the US rules.

GENERAL:

There are two Classes, "Sporter" and "Precision". The Sporter Class is primarily meant for beginners, while the Precision Class is intended for advanced shooters.

RULES:

These rules refer to the US Rule Book, section by section.

Sections 1 & 2: Good information, but ignore the parts that do not apply to Canada.

Section 3: Remove, including all sub-sections. Replace with -

"ELIGIBILITY TO COMPETE:

This is based on age and sex only:

Sub-Junior - Under 15 (separate male & female).

Junior - - Under 18 (separate male & female).

Effective dates at the discretion of the match organizer.

Senior - Anybody (separate male & female).

As this program grows, classifications will be established (Marksman, Sharpshooter etc.) based on scores.

Teams may be organized consisting of any number of shooters and any age/sex combination, at the discretion of the match organizer."

Section 4.1: Remove, including all sub-sections.

Section 4.2: Remove, including all sub-sections. Replace with -

"SPORTER AIR RIFLE:

Same as Precision rifle specifications however, no adjustments may be made between firing positions (eg. butt plate, cheek piece, location of sights etc.). The only exception to this is the hand stop which may be moved between shooting kneeling and prone."

The following Sections are all OK, including all sub-sections -

- 4.3
- 4.4
- 4.5
- 4.6
- 4.7
